Reflection

Personal sins may not often cause physical wounds, but they do often cause wounds of other types. These wounds often go either unnoticed by us, or are ignored. Perhaps this is because the pain of these wounds seems greater if we acknowledge it. Perhaps it's because acknowledging the pain would imply the need for some sort of action on our part. We easily look past our sins and their effects on our selves and others.

Stewardship

This coming week, say your daily prayers kneeling in front of a crucifix. If because of health you're unable to kneel, place a picture of the Crucifixion before you, and look at this image of Jesus dying for you on the Cross as you offer all your prayers through the power of the Cross.
